9:00-10:15 AM – Opening Super Session – The Aftermath: Industry Issues Following Irma & Harvey – Opus 1

The high number of insurance claims and foreclosure moratoriums are impacting Texas, Florida, and Puerto Rico after the most recent Hurricane's in those areas. Home prices could fall as flood-damaged foreclosures, short sales and vacant/abandoned properties flood the housing market in the hardest hit areas. The impact to mortgage servicers and law firms in affected areas is substantial. Loss mitigation will be important as these areas begin to re-build and flood insurance issues are addressed. Servicers and law firms will have to deal with significant reductions in foreclosure referrals and cases being placed on hold for a minimum of 90 days. Join our session to discuss what you can do to protect your assets, how to manage the reduction in work for your firm or company, and the best practices to mitigate losses in the aftermath of these natural disasters, and what mortgage servicers and law firms can do to work through these issues.
